

A CAUTION to the PUBLIC.

WHEREAS many Ladies and Gentlemen are so little acquainted with the principles of Watch-making, as to employ Jewellers, Silversmiths, Pawnbrokers, &c. &c. who know as little of the principle of that machine, as a blind man does of colours, however long they may have dealt in that article; however clear their judgment may be in other arts, in this they must be totally ignorant, as none but a real workman, with many years close application, can ever be a competent judge of that branch.

HECTOR SIMPSON,

Watch and Clock-Maker, the corner of Conduit and Swallow-streets, Hanover-square; Foreman to the late Mr. Fladgate, and formerly with Messrs. Vulliamy's, Pall-Mall, would think himself highly culpable not to warn a generous public, of whom he has received the most flattering encouragement against such impositions. He continues his original plan of selling Clocks, and Watches equally good, as those of the trade in general, both in quality and workmanship, 10 per cent cheaper, and 20 per cent lower than the aforementioned pretenders, and cleans and repairs old work in the same proportion.

N. B. Clocks winded up, and kept in good repair at 7s. 6d. per annum.
